Mop Gets Muddy

Written by Eleanor Flegg

Illustrated by Ian Kenny

Mop likes to run in the rain. Oh no!

Mop likes to jump
in the river. Oh no!

But Mop hates bath time.
Oh yes!

Dear Family,

Welcome to Sundance Literative Readers! Here are some ideas for reading this book with your child.

- Have your child read the story along with the computer voice. Click on any difficult words. The computer voice sounds them out.
- Take turns reading alternate sentences with your child. For example, you can read the first sentence, and your child can read the “Oh no!” refrain.
- Use these questions to talk about the story.

Tell me about Mop. What is he like?

What is the funniest scene with Mop? Why do you think so?

Would you tell a friend to read this book? Why or why not?

Extend the Learning

- Talk about caring for a dog like Mop. Ask your child to act out feeding a dog, walking it, and other actions that show dog care.
- Visit a pet store with your child. Talk to the clerks about caring for all the different pets there.
